

Naming - Case sensitivity (Bergman)

BE 18

- « As mentioned before, each data value in XML is of primitive type string. In the case where the data values are text strings, the values can provide an important clue as to whether terms are related or not (e.g., when deciding whether or not Windows and windows are equivalent). »