

Heterogeneities according to Euzenat

- « Heterogeneity does not lie solely in the differences between goals of the applications according to which they have been designed or in the expression formalisms in which ontologies have been encoded »